St. Patrick Party

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Archibald entertained about thirty of their friends Friday evening at a St. Patrick's party.

After partners had been chosen, they were directed to write verses about "Patrick and his pig." The productions were read later and the prize awarded by popular acclaim, the decision going to Miss Muriel Palmer and Geo. Robson.

Progressive whist and rook were played until refreshments were served. The score cards, decorations and prizes were all typical of the "Emerald Isle", one especially cute note being the little nut baskets tied with green tulle bows.

All the favorite Irish songs, new and old, were sung by several of the guests, and one of the inimitable Mr. Dooley's discourses was read.

The occasion was a thoroughly delightful one and everybody was glad that St. Patrick made his name memorable.

First Birthday Party

Marguerite Amy Bohrmann celebrated her first birthday anniversary Tuesday afternoon with a party, at which the following guests, with their mothers, were present, Sallie Davidson, Richard Robinson, Constance Nelson, Wilbur Clark and Evan Evans.

High chairs, that had been provided for all the babies, were placed around the birthday table, on which the centerpiece was a cake with one candle, surrounded by a procession of animal crackers. A procession of the crackers also led to each plate where the place cards were hand-painted marguerites with Baby Marguerite's picture in the center, the work of Auntie Marie Bohrmann.

Each baby was presented with a bib, the boys, pink and white, and the girls, blue and white. Their refreshments were mugs of milk, with graham crackers, the elders being served later.

The mothers wrote the names and the babies made their marks in the guest book. It was difficult to say which generation enjoyed the afternoon more.

Another Letter from Mrs. G. B. Cowles

S. S. San Miguel,
Dec. 21, 1916.

Dear Friends,

Here we are, out on the ocean sailing once more and this time it is on a quiet sea and in "a dandy little boat" as the boys say. We sailed quietly out of Lisbon harbor about noon yesterday. As we passed the old "Roma" we waved her a good-bye and a good riddance without a pang, except of regret that it was ever our ill-fate to travel on her.

Much to our surprise we find this little Portuguese boat a regular aristocrat of a ship, as clean as a whistle from stem to stern, the food of the best, and most daintily cooked. Oh, such a relief it is to be living under sanitary conditions once more, to have a clean cabin and bathroom, to eat with spoons that are not sticky, to drink water that has no odor, and to have food that is not soaked in pig fat. We seven South Africans vote the "Roma" the dirtiest boat we have ever travelled upon and we are thankful to have escaped with our lives from dirt and storms. I do think in war times, however, we should be thankful for anything that is not a real live submarine. Here endeth the story of the "Roma".

Up to date my acquaintance with Portuguese has been confined to those in America. It is very interesting therefore on this trip to get a glimpse of the Europeans. It was a tremendously smart looking crowd that came on board to see their friends off yesterday. As Frederick says, "There are some classy girls on this boat." He was especially smitten with a very nicely dressed little girl who left the boat when it sailed.

Alas! We are all literally at sea in trying to make ourselves understood here. We were getting on quite well on the French boat after frantic efforts to recall our French. Now all that is of no avail and we must learn to say "see, see" (cic, cic) instead of "we, we" (oui, oui) for yes. We must say "obligado" in place of "merci", "frie" instead of "froi" and so forth. It certainly will be a novelty to be understood in whole sentences when we go on board the English boat at Madeira tomorrow.

It is warmer today than yesterday. We will soon be over the Equator and sailing away into the summer of the great South land and away from the storms and cold of winter.

We were interested to find that this is the same boat we would have taken from the Azores to Madeira had we gone on the Canopic as first planned.

Only four days before Christmas! It does not seem possible. There is nothing suggestive of it here. We are counting on opening all the Campbell packages for our celebration. That will be a lovely Christmas for us. They all lie unopened in one of my trunks, up to date, since leaving Campbell. We have lived in our suit cases. We have scarcely had a peep inside our trunks as yet.

One big Christmas present came to us most unexpectedly before we left America. It was money with which we bought an Edison phonograph, which has a Victrola attachment. Can you imagine how grand we feel! I had wanted it so long and so desperately, I can hardly make it seem true that we have it, even now. We have only twelve records for it, but we can make the wilds ring with those and they will! How tickled our Zulus will be, and how tickled we are!

This must be a short letter, for we reach Madeira tomorrow early and just in time to catch the "Saxon" before she sails for Durban. There will be no time to add a word there. My next will be from Cape Town, D. V.

I am glad to report Mr. Cowles pretty well on this boat and I hope his siege with "mal de mer" is over, at least the worst of it.

With loving greetings to you all and with many, many thanks to our Campbell and other friends who have so beautifully provided for our Christmas tree.

As ever,
Amy Bridgman Cowles.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

"As long as there's life there's soap," sighed the small boy. Perhaps if his ma would scrub his face with Palmolive it wouldn't taste quite so bad, or smart his eyes so much.

"The trouble with Wilson," said the man—who-knows-it-all, "is that he lacks good advisers. Now if I had a chance to tell him something, there would be a great improvement," he continued, as he helped himself to a cookie out of the Cupid Dart tin. We suggested that a cookie that is good enough to swipe, is good enough to buy. He took the hint and invested a dime. "You sure have some good stuff in these cake tins," he commented, between bites. The man—who-knows-it-all is right—sometimes.

"How about that Aluminum Cooker?" is a question that comes across the counter every half hour or so. Judging from the demand for Quaker Oats, we think that about seventy-five or eighty Campbell families have already taken advantage of the liberal Cooker offer. Remember; the trade marks from fifty cents worth of Quaker Oats and an extra fifty cents, are all you need. Send these to the Quaker Oats Company, Railway Exchange, Chicago. The Cooker comes to you by parcel post.

A little girl who was as cranky as cranky can be, has become as happy and jolly as one could wish. "Uncle Sam Health Food did it," said her mama. Worth trying, isn't it?

Don't Tell Your Secret in Any Public Place, for a Very Good and Sufficient Reason.

"Don't tell your secrets on the street car or in the theater between acts or in any other public place, not even to your most trusted friend," said the man.

"I never do tell my secrets in public," she returned. "But why this advice?" asked the woman opposite.

"Because somebody is likely to see them."

"See them?"

"Yes. Don't you remember a newspaper story a few months ago to the effect that deaf-mutes who attend moving picture shows complained that the people on the screen did not follow the text of the play, but used coarse, vulgar and often indecent and profane language? These deaf-mutes had learned lip language and knew what those photographed players were saying."

"Well, since then, I hear the film companies have shut down on the bad language, but the story caught the attention of a good many readers and habitual movie patrons have fallen into the way of watching the lip movements and some of them have developed astonishing skill in reading what is said by the silent actors. Of course, they can read the lips of real people just as well, hence my warning."

"Oh, I can't believe there are many such persons."

"Don't take any chances. You'd probably be surprised to know how many people not deaf-mutes have that little accomplishment more or less developed. It seems with some to be a natural gift. I heard a woman tell the other day of a conversation she 'saw' between two friends sitting at the other end of a street car. Now just suppose those friends had been indulging in uncomplimentary remarks about her!"

"It isn't pleasant to think of," she said. "Is there to be no privacy except inside of soundproof walls with no electrical connections? I read somewhere the other day that a man is working on a machine that will catch our thought emanations even when we don't speak. Isn't it awful! And yet if messages can be sent across the world by wireless, is such an invention impossible? You know, one of the objections I have to heaven is that we can't have our thoughts to ourselves up there."

"Well, let's be glad that we can have them to ourselves here for awhile—if we watch out," said the man.—Indianapolis News.

New Industry on Coast.

Quite an extensive crawfish industry is being built up in the southern part of California, with San Diego as the center. The state has enacted protection laws, but in Lower California there is no protection, and vast amounts of them are caught off the rocky coast. They are shipped to numerous points on the coast farther north. Many persons call them "lobsters," and it is said they resemble their cousins, both in taste and appearance, except that the lobster has claws and the crawfish has not. In California the law prohibits the catching of those less than nine inches or more than thirteen inches in length.

They Were Ostriches, Not Ducks.
Because they left their ostriches out in the rain A. C. Hanson of the Cawston Ostrich Farm and Manager Moon of the Los Angeles Ostrich farm were arrested the other day charged with cruelty on a warrant issued by Judge Robert McDonald on the complaint of Humane Officer George Kelley.

Mr. Kelley said that the ostriches were in a miserable condition because of exposure and that one of the birds after collapsing was carried to shelter in a wheelbarrow. Every bird on the Cawston farm was shivering except those that happened to be sick and were kept under shelter.—Los Angeles Times.

Must Save $500 From $2,000.
A little Brooklyn girl, ten years old, is wondering how she is going to save $500 in the next five years. She is sure she will, but $500 is a good deal to save, especially with so many candy stores near.

She is the granddaughter of Robert Gibson Davison, who died December 14. His will bequeaths $2,000 to each of his five grandchildren, four boys and the ten-year-old girl, on condition that each saves $500 in five years. The oldest is not twenty-one.

Children and Policemen.

Efforts are being made in some parts of Chicago to create a better understanding and co-operation between children and policemen. In New York Police Commissioner Woods has furthered similar plans. He has had police sergeants give short talks to children in the public schools and he is planning to extend these to adults in the form of lectures on the work of the police department.

Great Man's Mood.

"Does it make any difference to you whether important people notice you or not?"

"Well, at home I'm not snobbish. But I must confess it makes me feel better when the janitor says 'Good day,' and looks genially approving."

PYGMIES of the CONGO

DANCE OF THE MAKERE TRIBE

HERBERT LANG, who has returned to civilization with the largest collection of specimens of animal life ever acquired in Africa, saw a good deal of the pygmies in the interior regions of the Belgian Congo, where he spent six years. He was in charge of the Congo expedition of the American Museum of Natural History. Altogether it is estimated that the members of the expedition gathered more than 20,000 large specimens for the museum and the collections in the aggregate weighed 45 tons.

When Mr. Lang and his associate, James P. Chapin, arrived in Africa they first established headquarters at Stanleyville, with an equipment including 11 tons of supplies, which they packed into loads of 60 pounds each for transportation over the trail leading into the forest. With the assistance of the Belgian government the explorers secured 200 native porters to carry their packs and started out on the journey from Stanleyville to Avakubi, which was accomplished in about twenty-one days.

"Our chief difficulty," said Mr. Lang, with reference to the equipment of the expedition, "was caused by the extreme humidity of the forest, to which our supplies to a certain extent were exposed. Whenever our expedition arrived at a village in the Congo the chieftain of the tribe usually greeted us and brought us presents of chicken, rice and bananas and other fruit. In exchange for these favors we gave thousand pictures in the field of African life, game and other subjects, succeeded in securing some capital negatives of the pygmies.

"The women are slightly smaller than the men," he said, "and their clothing consists chiefly of the bark of African trees. They usually speak the language of the tribe they happen to associate with, and the little people are ruled by their own chieftains.

Live in Leafy Bowers.

"Some of their places of abode are formed by bowers of large leaves in the depths of the forest. Others imitate the tribes or nearby natives and build their huts. Their villages are apart from each other. Once in a while they have a clash with the larger native tribes, but generally are not considered quarrelsome.

"Most of the natives are fond of music and dancing, and some of the tribes possess very elaborate musical instruments. These include antelope horns and wooden horns covered with animal skins and are used for ceremonial and other dances."

The natives also use wooden and iron clappers and iron rings upon their ankles, which make an odd sound during the dance. Some of the dances are the ceremonial, in which they initiate the natives into the secret societies, and the medicine man dance. The explorer said in response to a question that he had not seen any evidence of cannibalism, but he added:

"Nearly all African tribes are cannibals, but owing to the influence of the clothes and useful articles to the natives, who invariably are glad to welcome the white man to the Congo forest. We pitched our tent wherever night overtook us and often occupied for a dwelling place one of the shelter houses used by the natives.

Pygmies Are Not Shy.

"We discovered the first pygmy at Avakubi, and he was a prisoner on a charge of having killed a man with a spear. Contrary to the general idea the pygmies are not shy. They are a trifle suspicious, but after they make your acquaintance they are not unlike other tribes of native Africans.

"The pygmies live by hunting chiefly and frequently bring in antelope and other game to the villages, which they are glad to exchange for food. They are quite expert in tracking games and shoot everything with bow and arrow. On the track of big game the chiefs, women and children all join in the pursuit until the animal is captured. Sometimes they will give a tip to other natives about the discovery of game and then when the hunter's bag is filled they will demand a share of the trophy.

"At one time we arrived at a village of 200 pygmies and witnessed a characteristic pygmy dance. The pygmies dance in a circle to the accompaniment of the beating of a gong, and sometimes a drum. During the dance wine made from palms and the banana is consumed by the dancers."

Both the pygmy men and the women danced for the explorers and Mr. Lang, who, by the way, took more than six government and recent training this feature of life in the wilds has been practically eliminated."

In fighting the natives usually resort to spears and poisoned arrows, their chief weapon in conflict.

A messenger system has been established throughout the Congo region, whereby reports from chieftains in the Belgian Congo are received constantly. The entire region is closely patrolled by native messengers.

Those Poor Rich People.

Pity the poor millionaires! For the frugal wife, 5 cents now buys as big a loaf as it did two years ago, but $1,000 doesn't buy as big a blue foxskin coat—no, not by half.

The boiled potatoes on the modest dinner table are rather cheaper than they were last winter; but when the poor millionaires are driven by necessity to buy white fox furs hubby advances 65 per cent more money for them than he would have done at this time in 1913.

Beaver, another essential to plutocratic happiness, has risen much more than sugar or lamb chops. Indeed, Uncle Sam tells us that the whole fur family is roosting on a higher limb than ever before.

Luxuries rise and fall rapidly with the amount of loose change in millionaire bank accounts; but so far as prices go, the poor man's dinner pail can scarcely tell a financial feast from a financial famine.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

TELL OF PAST GLORY

RUINS OF ROMAN PALACES ME-
MENTOES OF GREATNESS.

Posilipo, in the "Fairest Land of Europe," Has a History Which Makes It of Entrancing Interest to the Tourist.

The city of Naples gives no idea of the beauty of southern Italy. It sits like a ragged vagrant by the roadside in the fairest land of Europe.

If you would see all of this beauty at a glance, visit the steep headline of Posilipo, which juts into the sea beyond the city. Here are combined the beauties of the modern Campania—the smooth roads winding upward past white villas, the blue sky, under which the earth seems to glow, while the sea is tipped with silver—and the most striking relics of the long-gone days of the Roman empire and the middle ages, those periods so full of story and color, which have moved across Italy, envied in her beautiful landscape and inspired by the romantic temperament of her people, like the acts of some mighty pageant.

At Posilipo stood the villa of Virgil, greatest of the Latin poets, and here today is a vault where his remains are said to lie. It was at Posilipo that Virgil wrote the Georgics, those beautiful Latin pastorals that picture all the seasons of the year as the poet studied them from his country seat. Here after he had died came many another poet and sage to put flowers on his tomb.

This famous sepulcher is a low stone vault with three windows. There formerly stood within it a tall urn, which was said to contain the ashes of the poet, but this has disappeared and is said to have been removed by King Robert the Wise to his palace for safe-keeping.

At the very end of the headland stands one of the most impressive relics of Roman luxury in all Italy. It is the ruin of Pausilyppum, the villa built by Vedius Pollio and bequeathed by him to Augustus Caesar. "The End of Sorrow" is the meaning of its name, which has become that of the entire headland.

Here are remains of massive white marble walls and pillars and foundations, reaching far out into the water, and from these and from the numerous legends and stories that cling about them, one may reconstruct the beauty and splendor and license of the life of decadent Rome. He may picture the great villa, sitting on the point of the headland, backed by dark groves, with its white feet in the breaking sea. He may reconstruct in fancy the Odeon and the theater, where the lord and his guests were entertained; the fish pond into which Vedius caused a servant to be thrown and devoured for breaking a glass; the wide-flung galleries and porticoes, the elaborate marble baths. And this palace of a bygone age he may people with the nobles and philosophers, the poets and soldiers of Rome, in their flowing robes of white and purple, attended by the slaves of all their wars—beautiful women of Greece, black men from Africa, fair-haired savages from the British Isles and the wild interior of Europe—the people of all the races conquered by these most powerful and dominating men that the world has yet brought forth and who are now remembered by crumbling stones upon a deserted beach.—Chicago Daily News.

His Ferocious Pacifism.

"I have before me," said Professor Pate, "the statement of the anti-preparedness literary bureau that Thomas Carlyle was a pacifist. Indeed, he was! At one time a worshipping American ventured to call on him. The genius had filled up on 17 cups of tea and was sitting humped over before the fireplace, wrapped in a shawl and an 8-inch grouch, and paid no attention to the visitor. Finally the caller uttered a timid 'Ah-him!'"

"Silence, you blockhead!" thundered Carlyle.

"But-but," stammered the intruder, "I-I am not saying anything."

"No, but you are interrupting my silence. Get out!"

"That is the sort of pacifist Thomas Carlyle was."—Kansas City Star.

Ring in the Ears.

Swelling and congestion of the mucous membrane of the eustachian tube—generally the result of neglected catarrhal "colds"—often produces ringing in the ears. If not soon relieved it will bring on a disease of the inner ear and deafness. Dr. W. C. Brains of Brooklyn told the American Otological society recently that he treats this by swabbing out the eustachian tube with a solution of 20 grains of nitrate of silver in an ounce of water, applying it on a pledget of cotton wound at the end of two strands of thin wire twisted as one.

On Barren Island

TYPE OF BARREN ISLAND HOMES

WELL named is Barren island. Far removed is it from the haunts of civilized man, though included within the geographical confines of Greater New York. And for the most part barren are the 1,500 or 1,600 inhabitants of civic or national ideals, even of ambition to better their condition; to make their days and nights conform measurably to standards such as other folk enjoy who are adopted sons and daughters of Father Knickerbocker's great and growing family, says the New York Sun.

Anyone with the desire to visit foreign shores, and without traveling more than an hour or so from City Hall park, can descend into the subway near by the municipal building, take a train for Canarsie, and at Canarsie landing step on board a steamboat which leaves there at frequent intervals bound Barren islandward. In an hour, more or less, the traveler will have arrived at his destination—at a land mass, as Arctic explorers put it—situate in a general direction south by east from the main borough of Brooklyn. Near by, toward the west, is Sheephead bay; to the east is Jamaica bay, and not far off is the group of Rockaways. Thus it will be seen that Barren island, while off the beaten track of travel, is by no means inaccessible. Yet when the traveler sets foot on shore there and takes one comprehensive glance around he will realize that in all but location he is in a foreign land.

The principal "center" of Barren island is its one great industry, that of handling refuse of the big city of which it is a humble part. This central spot is marked by the work of the reduction company, upon the operation of which Barren island and its inhabitants depend. Eastward from this great garbage plant stretches the one main avenue—Broadway it is ing therefrom treasures that their parents can sell or barter—bits of metal, occasionally pieces of gold or silver jewelry, now and then a scarf-pin or cuff link, a watch chain and once in a while a diamond ring or stud.

"It is hard to believe," said one of Commissioner Goldwater's men, who has been on a trip of investigation, "but down at Barren island almost every foreman or other important personage wears diamonds—and I am told that every one of them was picked up in those heaps of refuse. This, remember, after the refuse has been screened, crushed and examined with minute care for just such valuable 'pickings.'"

Russians, Slavonians, Poles and negroes apparently constitute the predominant strains of population, although other peoples are to be found, including Italians. Rumor has it, in fact, that the political leader of Barren island's little squad of voters is himself an Italian, and a very keen one at that. Life down there may not be all beer and skittles—although if health department surmises are correct a considerable part of it may be beer or liquid cousins thereto. But so far as can be ascertained by an outsider the islanders are far from an unhappy community. They work hard, it is true, in and around the reduction plant, at least the men do; and their womenfolk seem to work just as hard about their little homes, while the boys and girls, when they are not attending school, find plenty of occupation in searching for hidden treasure in those huge heaps of refuse.

Happy Boys and Girls.

The boys and girls of Barren island form the leading part of the population, so far as observation of the outside visitor can detect. Of course they do not wear clothing made for called, possibly so named many years ago by someone with a keen sense of the ludicrous. For this particular Broadway is bounded on one side by a marsh, a good, representative oozy marsh at that; and along the other side are perched the one-story homes of the employees of the garbage plant.

In many of these little shacks it is said that two and sometimes three families exist. In a majority it is alleged that boarders are taken. In fact, some of those who have been looking over social conditions at Barren island seem inclined to think that entirely too many boarders are taken 'in some of the tiny shacks that serve as dwellings.

Filth and Diamonds.

Not many months ago, two or three of Commissioner Goldwater's staff journeyed down to Barren island, made a careful survey of health conditions and came back home with a report that caused astonishment in the health department offices. They found a partial supply of good water on the island; but also found that a large proportion of the people were drinking water from surface wells. Furthermore, it was found that modern sanitary conveniences are practically unknown; that babies and ducks and cows and goats wallow side by side in the muck of "Broadway;" that while there is a school on the island there is no truant officer, and that because of this the children may go to school or not just as they choose. Also that a large majority of them prefer to spend their days in rummaging into the mountain-high heaps of refuse, sing strong iron forks and garner them or fitted to their years and sizes. But there is a delightful picturesqueness about their old shawls, the shoes far too large, when existent at all, and frankly lacking toe or upper; about the enveloping skirts, the occasional scarecrow hat—a wealth of gypsylike color and a most attractive abandon, testifying to the fact that in the opinion of these little people fine raiment occupies but a small and unimportant place in the general scheme of the universe.

And happy? Why, those sprites of the refuse heaps are as cheerful and joyous as if they were wading through fields of wild flowers up in Westchester county and chasing butterflies and gathering early apples instead of scurrying up a hill of refuse and then delving below its surface in the hope of discovering a bit of china or a silver teaspoon, an old watch chain or other trinket that can be polished and brightened and eventually sold.

Religious life on Barren island is represented by two churches, wherein services are held on Sunday. So far as could be ascertained no resident pastor has been assigned to Barren island for many years, if ever. It is cited as a fruitful field for sincere missionary effort by those organizations of one denomination or another which so generously provide medical missionaries, teachers, preachers, as well as schools, churches, chapels and hospital service for other islands than Barren—isles of the South Pacific, for example, as well as for Eskimos of the polar region, the inhabitants of India, Central Africa and many others in remote parts of the world.

Age of Elephants and Parrots. Eardley-Wilmot, in his "Life of an Elephant," says that these animals live one hundred years under favorable circumstances. R. Lydekker in his "Great and Small Game of India" says of the Indian elephant that its age depends upon its teeth.

Definite information as to the age of parrots is hard to find. In a work on "Parrots in Captivity" one black Madagascar specimen in the London zoo is mentioned, which was presented to the society full grown in 1831, and was still alive and well in 1884. Several others about twenty years old are mentioned.

STORY OF TWO ENGLISHMEN

Formal Introduction Prevented Any Infraction of Conventionalities During Sea Voyage.

Martin Littleton tells a story of two Englishmen whom he met while crossing from Europe. The Englishmen were both of a serious and conservative turn of mind. Although they shared the same stateroom, had seats at the same table, and sat side by side in their deck chairs, they did not speak to each other, considering it improper to do so, as they had not been introduced.

On the last day, when New York was near at hand, one of them decided it was time to waive conventionalities, and make the acquaintance of his fellow countryman.

They were standing side by side on the rail. The man with the initiative was lost in thought. Finally, when he had decided upon a timely introductory remark, he said:

"Goin' over?"

"Yas," replied the other Englishman.

"I rather thought I would. Are you?"

A Difference.

Mrs. Holdtite—My husband was very angry when I asked him for a new fur coat.

Mrs. Nokoyne—My husband was different. When I asked him for a new coat he never said a word.

Mrs. Holdtite—Fine; and did you get the coat?

Mrs. Nokoyne—No.

On the Veranda.

Dickson—There goes Mrs. Chase. What does she come to Florida for?

Wickson—She wants to get rid of her rheumatism.

Dickson—But why does she bring her three daughters along?

Wickson—Oh! she wants to get rid of them, too.

Carried Away.

First Actor—Yes, our western trip was pretty rough. Frost everywhere except one place. When we left there, the whole town was up in the air about us.

Second Actor—One of those sudden waves of rheumatism, eh?

First Actor—No; a cyclone.

No Lack of Eye Openers.

"So you've cut out the drink since you married, eh, Newpop. Don't you miss your eye openers?"

"Miss 'em? I get too many eye openers."

"Who from?"

"The baby at 2 a. m."

THE DIRECT ROUTE.

"They say she spurned his offer of marriage."

"She did. She found that he was dependent upon a rich uncle, so she married the uncle."

Engagement Ring.

Victor—Yes; I had a terrible battle with Marion's heart before she finally accepted me.

Harold—You don't say! How is she now?

Victor—Oh! she is still in the ring.

Just That.

Max—Jones is the most wide-awake man I know.

Dax—You surprise me; I never heard of his being especially enterprising.

Max—Oh! it isn't enterprise that makes him so; it's insomnia.

So Kind of Her.

Phoebe—Fred asked me your age last night, dear.

Phyllis—The idea! And did you tell him?

Phoebe—Of course not. I merely said you didn't look it.

CALOMEL TODAY, SICK TOMORROW

Dose of nasty calomel makes you sick and you lose a day's work.

Calomel salivates! It's mercury. Calomel acts like dynamite on a sluggish liver. When calomel comes into contact with sour bile it crashes into it, causing cramping and nausea.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a 50 cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone, which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

If you take calomel today you'll be sick and nauseated tomorrow; besides, it may salivate you, while if you take Dodson's Liver Tone you will wake up feeling great, full of ambition and ready for work or play. It's harmless, pleasant and safe to give to children; they like it.—Adv.

Against Law to Be Patriotic.

According to a recent ruling of Justice Gould of the district supreme court the law as it is now interpreted permits a theater manager to eject from his house of entertainment a patron who rises to his feet when the national anthem is played. The custom of rising when the national anthem is played is a matter of taste and not particularly of right. It is a most excellent practice, worthy of emulation. It should be universal. In the particular case in point a grave error of judgment was committed by the theater management in trying to put out the man who patriotically insisted upon standing. Those who churlishly called upon him to resume his seat should have been the objects of corrective attention.—From the Washington Star.

MANKIND UNFAIR TO HORSE

If Beasts of Burden Could Talk Inhumanity Might Well Be Subject of Indictment of Their Masters.

If horses could talk those of us who know them best have no doubt as to some of the things they would say. Man's inhumanity to them would be the chief subject of their conversation, at least if they are half as human as we think they are.

To require a locomotive to haul a train of cars over a track that wrecks it before half the days of usefulness should be over and then send it to the scrap heap, is an economic folly. To ask a horse to drag our heavy loads of coal, ice, iron, lumber—the merchandise of all sorts by which cities grow rich and great—over streets that wear it out even before it has reached its prime, is not only an economic folly, it is a cruelty that not only horses but all decent men must condemn.

There are streets where, no small part of the year, the pavement is so slippery that it is torture for a horse to travel on them. There are others so full of holes, so uneven, so wretchedly out of repair, that no self-respecting horse, left to himself, would ever set foot upon them.

To be jerked and pulled, now this way, now that, because the loaded wagon you are straining to drag to its destination sinks into a hollow here, or bangs into an elevation there, to go home at night with feet bruised and shoes torn off by pavements, with legs aching in every muscle because no clean level surface has been provided where the feet could get a grip—if we were horses, who of us would not start a union for self-protection, and strike before the week was over?

But horses do talk. Their language is not audible, it is visible. You see it in that swollen joint, that sprained tendon, that limping gait, which speak of the roads over which men have made them travel.

Money? No money to put our streets in order? We are robbing our taxpayers of their money by refusing to do it—saving at the spigot and wasting at the bung hole. We are doing more. We are treating with positive cruelty, every working day of the year, thousands of the most faithful servants of our cities, without whom we would have had no cities worthy the name.—Exchange.

Prices of Gems Soaring.

If anyone notices a broad and becoming smile on the fair countenances of their favorite actresses, there's a reason. It is because the prices of precious stones are soaring to the sky. Nearly every prominent stage favorite has acquired a bushel or so of diamonds, rubies, emeralds and other valuable stones. That is the reason they are happy. Under present conditions they are not required to go before the footlights and sing and dance or do whatever their specialty is. What's the use when they can attain wealth without effort? Diamonds are as valuable as "war babies." The war has sent the price of precious stones "way up and dealers say they are still soaring. This is because very few stones are being imported. Then again there has been a boost of ten to twenty per cent in the tariff on cut stones, and another thing, the diamond mines in South Africa are shut down. If you have promised your lady friend a diamond ring or a bauble with precious stones you may as well be prepared to see your bank roll fade away.

Nameless Inventors.

Apart from the sheer human wonder aroused by the wireless telephone, the most remarkable fact seems to be that this application of research has been carried out by a business corporation, and that the inventors and scientists remain anonymous. As evidence of human motives there is much to think about here. What is the incentive which impels these unknown workers, what secret have these corporations discovered which enables them to tap so inexpensively the most useful minds in America? When next we read that enterprise would collapse without dazzling rewards, that human nature is so and so, we shall not be able to refrain from thinking of these nameless benefactors of mankind. Their incentive seems somehow to be as good as those of the men who are piling up fortunes in war speculation, or of those who had grandfathers with a vision of real estate development.—New Republic

His Precarious Condition.

"I overheard someone saying that your nephew, Emmett Uckles, is lying in a critical condition. What is the nature of his complaint?"

"He isn't making any," replied Uncle Foggy. "It is his wife who is doing the complaining. You see, Emmett went to Kansas City not long ago to buy goods, and a few days after his return there came a dainty note signed 'Your Little Sunshine.' It fell into his wife's hands, and he has been lying ever since. I should call his condition middlin' critical, too, for I don't see how in tunket he is going to falsify his way out of it."—Kansas City Star.

Women Once Invalids

Now in Good Health Through Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Say it is Household Necessity. Doctor Called it a Miracle.

All women ought to know the wonderful effects of taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound even on those who seem hopelessly ill. Here are three actual cases:

Harrisburg, Penn.—"When I was single I suffered a great deal from female weakness because my work compelled me to stand all day. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for that and was made stronger by its use. After I was married I took the Compound again for a female trouble and after three months I passed what the doctor called a growth. He said it was a miracle that it came away as one generally goes under the knife to have them removed. I never want to be without your Compound in the house."—Mrs. FRANK KNOBL, 1642 Fulton St., Harrisburg, Penn.

Hardly Able to Move.

Albert Lea, Minn.—"For about a year I had sharp pains across my back and hips and was hardly able to move around the house. My head would ache and I was dizzy and had no appetite. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills, I am feeling stronger than for years. I have a little boy eight months old and am doing my work all alone. I would not be without your remedies in the house as there are none like them."—Mrs. F. E. YOST, 611 Water St., Albert Lea, Minn.

Three Doctors Gave Her Up.

Pittsburg, Penn.—"Your medicine has helped me wonderfully. When I was a girl 18 years old I was always sickly and delicate and suffered from irregularities. Three doctors gave me up and said I would go into consumption. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and with the third bottle began to feel better. I soon became regular and I got strong and shortly after I was married. Now I have two nice stout healthy children and am able to work hard every day."—Mrs. CLEMENTINA DUEKING, 34 Gardner St., Troy Hill, Pittsburg, Penn.

All women are invited to write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for special advice,—it will be confidential.

5,000,000 out of the 20,000,000 school children in the United States, suffer from some sort of eye defect, which prevents proper school advancement. There are 300,000 blind dependents in the United States. Most of this blindness could have been prevented if the eyes had been examined and given proper care at the right time. I will be at Dr. Merrill's office Monday, March 27. Bring your child to me on that date and let me give his eyes a thorough examination. Act At Once

It is not expected that the Fourth Assistant Postmaster General and a corps of inspectors can visit every afflicted community. Therefore, it becomes necessary for the carriers and patrons of all routes which have been disorganized or threatened with disturbance to write at once to their Congressmen and Senators, urging the enactment of laws which will safeguard the service. The chairman and some members of the House Postoffice Committee have promised to report a separate bill, covering satisfactory rural delivery legislation, and every man who is interested in the welfare of the service, who wants efficiency rather than cold-blooded economy, should write at once and inform his representative in Congress of his wishes, and ask that the Postoffice Committee be requested to take prompt action. The same course should be followed with reference to Senators, so that in the event of failure of the House to act necessary amendments can be made to the postoffice bill by the Senate.

The situation requires prompt and vigorous action by both rural delivery patrons and carriers who are most directly interested. If no effort is made to secure favorable legislation, Congress cannot be blamed for failure to act. This is an exceedingly busy session, and much legislation of great importance must be considered; but nothing is of greater importance to farmers than laws which insure the prompt and regular delivery of their mail. If they ask for such laws, they will be enacted; otherwise they will not.

To quote a familiar expression, "Take due notice thereof and govern yourselves accordingly."

Fraternal Aid Union

Palm Leaf Council No. 560 met in regular session on Saturday evening, March 11. The meeting opened in ritualistic form with all officers in their chairs. The work was quickly disposed of to give place to the social hour. The social committee, Messrs. Whitman, Burns and Robinson served splendid ice-cream and cake, making it very pleasant for all. All members are urged to be present at the next meeting which will be held on March 25th.

High School Notes

Saint Patrick's Day this year fell on a day when the morning exercises were in charge of the Senior class. They had prepared a program of three numbers, but, as one of the participants failed to appear, they had but two. Stella Levison gave an account of the life of Saint Patrick, and Virginia Isham read a comic story in Irish dialect.

The spring vacation this year will be the first week in April. The time of the vacation is a disappointment to the boys, who had hoped that it would come in the fishing season.

There will be no Senior trip this year. This announcement is a blow to the Seniors' hopes, for they had planned on the trip for some time. They are very much disappointed, but will try to find some comfort in the three or four all-day picnics that have been promised as a substitute.

If you miss the Junior farce at the High School, March 31 and April 1, you will miss a rare treat. The cast meets several times a week for practices, under their coach, Miss Kreiss, and promises a very good production of "Fanny and the Servant Problem," the play selected by the committee. The cast will be given next week.

The High School ball club suffered a defeat at the hands of the Los Gatos high team last Friday, the 17th. This was the second game of the C. I. F. schedule. Pierce pitched the game of his life, but errors were responsible for the defeat.

Campbell scored in the second inning. Duncan reached first on a fumble by Boutan, and took second and third on the overthrow to first. He scored on Pierce's hit to center. In the third frame Huntley reached first on an error by Michaelson, stole second, and scored on Oliver's double to center. In the sixth Ludwig singled to right, stole second and scored on Bydekarken's sacrifice grounder.

Los Gatos scored twice in the third on errors by Bydekarken. In the sixth Price threw wild to first, Gertrude taking third. He scored when Bydekarken fumbled a bunt laid down by Hardies. The score remained 3 to 3 until Darling came up in the ninth and tapped one of Pierce's shoots for a triple, scoring Michaelson and Sproule. Then it was all over but the hurrahs.

The Compromise

My house needs paint, my wife needs clothes.
My boy needs shoes.
Among their needs, you may suppose, it's hard to choose.
No man could be in a worse strait between two fires.
I guess they'll have to wait.
My car needs new tires.

Sarah C. Oldham and Inez C. Shields, also known as Inez Shields, Plaintiff, vs.

Charles A. Hunt, as Administrator of the Estate of E. M. Hunt, deceased; Orrin Simmons, and "also all other persons unknown, claiming any right, title, estate, lien or interest in the real property described in the complaint adverse to plaintiffs' ownership, or any cloud upon plaintiffs' title thereto."

Action brought in the Superior Court of the State of California in and for the county of Santa Clara, and the complaint filed in the office of the clerk of said county of Santa Clara.

The people of the State of California send greeting to Charles A. Hunt, as Administrator of the Estate of E. M. Hunt, deceased; Orrin Simmons, and "also all other persons unknown, claiming any right, title, estate, lien or interest in the real property described in the complaint adverse to plaintiffs' ownership, or any cloud upon plaintiffs' title thereto."

You are hereby directed to appear and answer the complaint in an action entitled as above brought against you in the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the County of Santa Clara, within ten days after service upon you of this summons if served within this county, or within thirty days if served elsewhere, and you are hereby notified that unless you so appear and answer as above required the said plaintiffs will take judgment for any money or damages demanded in the complaint as arising upon contract, or will apply to the Court for any other relief demanded in the complaint.

The object of the action is to determine all adverse claims to and clouds upon plaintiffs' title to that certain real estate situate in the County of Santa Clara, State of California, and particularly described as follows, to-wit:

Beginning at a point on the Northernly line of Saratoga Avenue, (formerly known as McCartyville Road), 30 feet Easterly from the Southeast corner of the two-acre tract conveyed by E. M. Hunt, et al., to William James Thompson by deed dated September 28th, 1878, and recorded in Liber 46 of Deeds, page 291 in the office of the County Recorder of the County of Santa Clara, State of California, said point being 11 rods and 15 1/2 feet East from a stake marked "9" standing on the North side of said road or avenue; thence Northernly and parallel to the Easterly line of said two-acre tract to the center of the Quito or Campbell Creek; thence Westerly and along the center of said creek to the Easterly boundary line of land of Kennedy; thence North 150 West to a stake marked "C4" in the center of said Quito or Campbell Creek; thence South 300 E. 2.43 chs. to an Alder tree marked "C5"; thence North 539 East to the Northwest corner of that tract of land as described in that certain deed dated December 8th, 1888 executed by Caroline Brewer to Inez Shields and recorded in Book 114 of Deeds, page 136, Records of Santa Clara County, California; thence Southerly 361 feet, more or less along the Westernly boundary line of said land of Inez Shields to the Northernly line of Saratoga Avenue; thence Southwesterly along the Northernly line of said Saratoga Avenue to the point of beginning.

And the plaintiffs in said action seek judgment that they are the owners in fee simple of the whole of said property; that the above named defendants, and also all other persons unknown claiming any right, title, estate, lien or interest in the said property adverse to plaintiffs' ownership, or any cloud upon plaintiffs' title thereto be forever closed and enjoined and forever restrained from asserting any right, title, estate, lien or interest in said real property, or any part thereof and for such other and further relief as to the Court may seem just.

GIVEN under my hand and the seal of the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the County of Santa Clara, this 2nd day of February, A. D. 1916.

Mary Cook

Mrs. Mary Cook passed away Tuesday at Santa Ana after a short illness, suffering from paralysis. She received another stroke last Thursday and had been unconscious since. She recently sold her home on Harrison Avenue and with her son, Earl, had been at Santa Ana about a week. She was a native of Iowa, 58 years old. Living at Watsonville for 30 years she moved to Los Gatos, then Campbell where her home has been for some time. The funeral services were held this morning at 10 o'clock at Watsonville.

Last week Thursday evening, the men of the Congregational church held a most enjoyable social and luncheon hour at the church parlors. It is planned to hold these fellowship gatherings more or less regularly with a program later.
